An invitation is extended to all the children to attend the children's party Thursday afternoon. Special attractions to those desiring.

It has been decided that there will be no games of chance connected with the household booth or any booths of the fair.

ANOTHER ROBY CLUB.

It Strikes a Snag in Its Effort to Incorporate.

Secretary of State Myers, yesterday morning, received articles of association from an organization calling itself the Roby Athletic Club. Acting upon the instruction of the Governor, issued some time ago, in relation to affairs pertaining to Roby, the Secretary at once submitted the document to Attorney-general Smith. The new association gives no capital stock, which the Attorney-general believes is a ruse to secure incorporation papers with a nominal fee. The articles set forth the fact that the organization is to be purely of a pleasure and social nature. Athletic exercises, boating, bathing and fishing are some of the features of the proposed entertainment. "Contests of science and skill" are also to be given under the special direction of the board. It is especially provided that prize-fighting and other unlawful entertainments will be absent.

The association makes its plea for incorporation under the provisions of the McHugh law. After looking the papers over the Attorney-general returned them to the Secretary of State with the advice to insist on a statement of capital stock. Otherwise there would be no basis by which the State could claim a fee. Aside from this flaw in the articles the Attorney-general finds nothing irregular. The purpose of the association is to be at Hammond, with the following directors: Morris Champeigne, Edward C. Johnson, John Huber, Adelbert W. Warren, Thomas E. Knotts, Henry Lundt, William G. Friedley and Frederick F. Friedley.

WANT A HAYMARKET

Farmers Are Petitioning the Board of Public Safety.

Driven from Pillar to Post—Assistant Clerk of the Board of Works—Garfield Park Management.

There is a cloud of mimic war on the horizon, between men who sell hay for a living on the public squares of the city and the men who sell beans, potatoes and other things which go to make up our daily bread. Those who sell provender for beasts believe the old Board of Safety disapproved against them in the interest of those who did provender for men. It comes about over the removal of the hay market from the lot adjoining the east market to a lot on Maryland street, between Tennessee and Mississippi.

Some few months ago the board decided that the hay wagons occupied much more space than the importance of the business, viewed from a public standpoint, warranted. The board leased the lot where the old market was formerly stood on Maryland street, and one fine morning the farmers came to town to find that they must stand on this lot. They did not like the change, and it took them but a short time to say so. These farmers, however, could not vote

Sullivan, and their protest was not as weighty as might have been had they raised their hay in Ward 9 or within the city limits. A committee was appointed to draw up petitions asking the board to remove the stand to the old location opposite the jail. Blank forms were printed and industriously circulated. Farmers in many parts of the county signed them. Yesterday morning the first of these petitions was presented to the Board of Safety. The petition filed yesterday was as follows:

"We, the undersigned, farmers of Marion and adjoining counties, whose market place is at Indianapolis, beg leave to respectfully represent to you that from the experience we have had, we have become thoroughly convinced that the removal of the hay market from its former location to its present location was ill-advised and a mistake which should be corrected at once. The old market secured to us many advantages over the new one in this: That it was in the midst of a much larger number of good and commodious stables for the shelter of our teams and loads, and good restaurants where we could procure our meals at any time; among the advantages we have had, we have become thoroughly convinced that the removal of the hay market from its former location to its present location was ill-advised and a mistake which should be corrected at once.
